MEYLER CAMPBELL'S GUIDE TO LEADING CLIENTS & TEAMS REMOTELY

Meyler Campbell's learning resource for those of you who are leading or, coaching others who lead, virtual teams.

FOR COACHES

Coaching two clients at the same time; you might find that during the current crisis you are asked to coach more than one person during a session. Published in Coaching at Work and written by Meyler Campbell Faculty Member Eyal Pavell explains how to deal with the complexities this can bring.

Making change happen: Three ways coaches can help lead the charge; Julie Benezet has coached and consulted with executives in virtually every industry. Her three principles have guided the way she works through change with her clients.

How does coaching actually help leaders? As we know, coaching is an invaluable tool for development. Carley Sime writes for Forbes to shine further light on researcher Sally Bonneywell's case study on the effects of coaching on development of female leaders.

FOR MANAGERS

Help for managers with home working teams; sharing on her own experience, Founder of Engaging Minds Sally Bibb, offers advice and practical tips for business leaders, managers, and for anyone working from home during the Covid-19 crisis.

8 ways to manage your team while social distancing; Timothy Clark shares his best recommendations for supporting continued learning and the emotional well-being of your employees when everyone is working remotely.

How to lead successful teams when everyone is remote; featured in LinkedIn's Learning Blog, Rachel Lefkowitz shares three strategies for successfully managing your remote team.

7 leadership principles for managing in the time of Coronavirus; John Quelch calls them the seven C's. Leaders managing their organisations through a crisis show seven distinct capabilities, and John shares these C's with Harvard Knowledge to help managers survive Coronavirus.

FOR BOTH

The leader as coach; winner of the Warren Bennis Prize for top rated HBR article of 2019, Herminia Ibarra & Anne Scoular write a game-changing article on leadership and coaching.

Making meetings a safe space for honest conversation; particularly prudent in times of Covid-19, having a safe space to talk with your client or employees about how they are feeling and dealing mentally with the crisis is more important than ever.

How to get people to actually participate in virtual meetings; Justin Hale & Joseph Grenny have spent the last few years studying virtual training sessions. They have found five tried and tested methods to ensure better meeting outcomes and share these results with HBR.

Remote working – setting yourself and your teams up for success; created by LinkedIn Learning, a virtual learning course to: learn how to work effectively remotely, how to adjust to your new work environment, and explore the different virtual connections to communicate effectively.
